By Associated Press.

London, November 28. — While newspaper reports from Petrograd continue to claim a victory in northern Poland, comparable at least to Sedan and even worthy to rank with the disaster which Russia inflicted upon Napoleon, official communications shed but little light on the situation in Poland.

An official dispatch from Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces in the field, while of considerable length, concerns itself largely with more or less isolated operations and does not claim the infliction of an overwhelming defeat upon the invaders. The Grand Duke sums up the situation with the declaration that on the entire front between the Vistula and the Warthe rivers the battle is progressing in favor of Russian arms.

Both Berlin and Vienna still claim that no decisive result has followed the recent operations in Russian-Poland.

On the western battle front the lull still prevails, the only hint of activity being found in the report from Holland that the British fleet again is operating against the German positions on the Belgian coast.

The visit of Sir Roger Casement, who became famous as the investigator of the Putumay rubber atrocities, to the Berlin foreign office, is being prominently featured by the London papers. The comment, however, is rather reserved.

On the whole the press seems frankly puzzled by the episode which indicates that direct negotiations between Germany and the extreme section of the Irish Nationalists have been going on.

The British public has been greatly reassured by the statements of Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, concerning the naval position of the empire. This has been supplemented by the official French report that the combined fleets have not only command of the Mediterranean but are maintaining a successful blockade of the Adriatic and the Dardanelles.

From Petrograd comes a much delayed account of a surprise attack by a Russian fleet which, it is claimed, resulted in serious disaster to the German Baltic squadron.

England is confronted with the necessity of energetic action, according to advices today from Berlin, to protect her interests in the near east.

A report from Cairo to Berlin says 76,000 Turkish troops are on the march toward the Suez canal. In the hostile army opposed by British forces it is said there are 10,000 Bedouins. Interest is attached to this report chiefly because of the recent proclamation of the Sultan of Turkey, calling upon Mohammedans the world over to rise to arms against the allies. Thus far there have been no indications that the proclamation has led to uprising.

An official communication from the Russian army of the Caucasus tells of another heavy fighting between Russian forces which have invaded Turkey, but gives no indication of the outcome. The situation in Russian-Poland was as much of a mystery as ever.

Paris, November 28.—The correspondent of the Matin in Petrograd says he learns from highly competent sources that the losses of the Germans in Poland on November 25 were considerable and that an army corps was made prisoners and another corps routed.

Lemberg, Galicia, via Petrograd and London, November 28.—In operations lasting three days in the vicinity of Strykow and Pushin, near Lodz, the Germans lost upwards of 17,000 men, a heavy battery of artillery and 28 machine guns, according to authoritative information made available in Lemberg today. In the same fighting the Austrians lost 16,000 men in addition to 20 machine guns. The German operations in this locality are declared by Russian military observers in Lemberg to have been absolute failure and the chances of their escaping further disaster is regarded here as slight.

Amsterdam, via London, November 28.—The Berliner Tageblatt, quoting an article referring to the allegations that British airmen violated Swiss neutrality in the recent raid on the Zeppelin factor at Friedrichshafen says: "In case of a repetition of the violation of Swiss neutrality by France or England it is not to be expected that Germany will respect Swiss neutrality on the Belfort frontier. The Swiss federal assembly has ordered that all aviators flying over Swiss territory be shot down."

Amsterdam, November 28.—An official Berlin telegram contradicts the report published in London that Dismude has been re-occupied by the allies.

MINE SINKS GERMAN SHIP IN BALTIC SEA

By Associated Press.

Paris, November 28.—A dispatch to the Matin from Petrograd states that it is reported there that the German battleship Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse struck a mine and sank in the Baltic, but adds that there is no official confirmation of the rumor.

The battleship Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse evidently referred to in dispatch is one of Germany's oldest battleships, having been built in 1901. The warship carries a crew of 658 men.

COX WARNS FARMERS TO HOLD LIVE STOCK

By Associated Press.

Columbus, O., November 28.—"Hold your live stock for a few days or longer." This is the urgent advice sent out by Governor Cox today to farmers over Ohio. Release of the strict quarantine for foot and mouth disease yesterday caused a rush of shipments of fat cattle and hogs to market today and a serious drop in prices paid for live stock for slaughter. Governor Cox, according to reports reaching the Governor, Prices in Ohio should be maintained equal to those in Chicago Governor Cox believes.

Modification of the embargo against inter-state shipments to enable sale of heavy beeves to New York packers for Christmas trade was considered by Dr. Marion Imes, chief federal veterinarian inspector, in conference with the governor today. FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES REACH CITY

A few of the Federal Reserve notes said to be the first to reach this city, are now on exhibition at the Washington Savings bank, where they are attracting quite a little attention.

The new notes are much different from the average bank note, and at first glance might easily be mistaken for counterfeits. The notes on display are $5 denomination, with a picture of Lincoln in the center, while on the reverse side is depicted sailors pleading with Columbus to turn his ship back to shore. A second illustration on the right end of the same side shows the landing upon American shores.

Within a short time these notes will be in general circulation.

WANT CORN BOYS TO WEAR BEST

By Associated Press.

Columbus, O., November 28.—Corn boys who take the special trip to Washington and other eastern cities, beginning next Monday, should wear their best clothes instead of khaki uniforms that parents of a few corn boys have suggested to state officials.

"Eastern people should see and think of Ohio's corn boys as prosperous young gentlemen, fully as modern as any city folks, and for this reason the boys should dress in their Sunday best and not khaki," said a letter.

AUTOMOBILE HITS RIG ON COURT ST.

An automobile, said to belong to A. D. Fullerton, Columbus, Ohio, R. D. 4, struck a dray on East Court street shortly before noon Saturday, but the only damage inflicted was to the automobile.

The machine rounded the corner on the proper side of the street, it is claimed by eyewitnesses, and a rig coming along on the wrong side of the street compelled the driver of the auto to turn his machine into the dray. The dray also was turned in the wrong direction.

One lamp, the fender, and other parts of the machine, suffered in the crash.

EXCHANGE BUSY PLACE

By Associated Press.

New York, November 28.—The New York stock exchange resumed operation in a tentative way today for the first time since July 30 last.

Trading was restricted to bonds for which, in all instances, minimum prices were established. All transactions were for cash and every effort was made to exclude foreign selling. The attendants of the floor of the exchange, when the gong sounded at 10 o'clock, was unusually large. The sound brought cheers from the brokers. Thereafter business went on in an orderly fashion. The total business for the session amounted to $640,000, par value, with $5,000 government bonds.

VILLA TO MARCH ON VERA CRUZ

Would Drive General Carranza From the Country.

WILL EMPLOY FORCE OF 50,000

Part of Villa's Army Now in Mexico City, While the Chief Himself Remains at Tula, Forty Miles Away. Constitutionalists Promise Strong Opposition to Any Eastward Movement From the Capital.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 28.—A part of General Villa's forces have entered Mexico City, but Villa remains at Tula, forty miles from the Mexican capital. A train, the first in many weeks, left Mexico City for Juarez. This was learned when rail and wire communications were opened between the national capital and the border. According to Juarez officials Villa will remain in Mexico City only long enough to establish the government, and will then move his entire force against Vera Cruz. His object, it is stated, is to either capture Carranza or drive him from the country. All other campaigns will be subservient to this move, and a force of more than 50,000 men, it is claimed, will be moved against the seaport where Carranza is making his headquarters. Zapata, who holds Mexico City, is expected to assist in this movement.

Villa's troops will encounter strong opposition in any eastward movement from Mexico City, Carranza agents here declare. The latter claims that the entire command of General Lucio Blanco, parts of the commands of Generals Obregon and Buelna and most of Jesus Carranza's brigade, are located along the line east, with Orizaba as a base.

A movement against Victoria, capital of the Mexican state of Tamaulipas, has been begun by the Villa forces. An official Villa report said that General Caballero, the Carranza leader, whose troops hold Tampico, has recognized the convention party and will offer no resistance to the entry of Villa's troops. Villa forces are also moving against Monerey.

SUBMARINES SINK THREE BRITISH BOATS

Germans Destroy Two Near Port of Havre, France.

THIRD BLOWN UP NEAR HULL

Sinking of Vessels in French Waters One of the Most Daring Feats Performed by the Kaiser's Submarines. Crews of the Three Vessels Safely Landed — First Lord Churchill Praises British Navy.

London, Nov. 28.—A British collier and two steamers have been added to the toll of destruction from German naval operations. Crews of the three vessels were saved.

The British admiralty announced that the collier Khartoum had been blown up by a mine off the Grimsby coast. The crew of the Khartoum was landed at Grimsby. Grimsby is on the south bank of the Humber, fifteen miles southeast of Hull.

The Khartoum was of 1,930 tons net. She was 3135 feet long, 40 feet beam and 20 feet deep. The vessel was built at Stockton in April, 1893. Two British steamers were sunk off Havre by German submarines. The steamers were the Malachite and the Primo. The crews of both vessels were rescued. The men from the Malachite were landed at Southampton and those from the Primo at Fecamp, a French port on the English channel.

Lloyd's report indicates that German submarines have performed one of their most daring feats. This is the first occasion on which their activities have been reported in these waters. Apparently they made their way through the Straits of Dover to a point more than 150 miles from their nearest base.

The Malachite was a small steamer, of 718 tons gross. She was built in Glasgow in 1902. The gross tonnage of the Primo was 1,366. She was laid down in Stockton in 1898.

of the admiralty, in a speech in the house of commons, before the adjournment of the lower house to Feb. 2, told the country that, despite the loss of some of the older ships of the British navy, there was no cause for nervousness, but every reason for complete confidence in the power of the navy to give effect to the wishes and purposes of the empire.

The first lord told of the danger to British ships from mines and submarines and of the possibility of armored and fast enemy liners escaping to the high seas to prey on the allies' shipping, which, he added, had been prevented thus far. On the whole, the first lord said, he considered the navy had done well. It was, he declared, driving German commerce from the seas and preventing enemies getting their war material, which they needed more and more as the war proceeded.

SAFETY IN MEXICO OIL DISTRICT DOUBTED; LOOTERS IN TAMPICO

Washington, Nov. 28.—The disintegration of the political situation and lack of any restraining and responsible authority is greater today than at any period in the four years of Mexican troubles, according to advices reaching here.

Late reports received officially announced that the town of Panuco, in the heart of the Tampico oil district, had been evacuated by Carranza forces, fearing the approach of Villa troops, and that the town was taken possession of by irresponsible irregulars, declared to be no better than bandits. Looting of stores and houses in the town has already occurred.

The United States has the monitor Ozark in the Panuco river at Tampico, and it is thought she will be moved up the river as close as possible to Panuco.

It was thought probable that appeals would be made to the United States on behalf of the British, Dutch and American oil interests, in that district for the taking of bluejackets to protect the immensely valuable oil properties there, but the present indications are that such an appeal will be flatly refused.

Panama, Nov. 28.—The American steamship St. Helens, Captain Odland, which sailed from New York Nov. 17 for San Francisco, arrived at Colon and reported that she had been fired on by the British cruiser Berwick. The incident occurred at a point ninety miles northwest of Colon.

An officer from the cruiser boarded the St. Helens and examined her papers and cargo and then the vessel was permitted to proceed on her voyage, after a delay of three hours.

The "Hobby Cure"

The most dangerous menace to health and happiness is the vacant mind—the mind so unoccupied that the owner of it becomes abnormally self centered.

A great scientist is responsible for the statement that it is boredom that exhausts and enfeebles and his verdict is upheld by the many examples of the human race, who from lack of mental interest, become morbid and inert.

The simple method of what scientists term "mind fertilization," is being employed with great success among specialists in the treatment of nervous and mental disorders.

The best physicians nowadays employ therapeutic technique in a systematic attempt to "energize" patients mentally and prevent disintegrating effects from the introspection born of the empty mind. As far as possible they prohibit any exchange of confidences regarding ailments among patients in sanitariums, the great aim being to induce charges to forget themselves and to provide their minds with nourishing food.

The "hobby cure" has become one of the most approved ideas of modern neurologists and the cultivation of a hobby has proved over and over sufficient to restore to health the nervously unstrung.

The therapeutic value of the hobby is demonstrated by the number of long-lived great men, who have been so devoted to their special "hobbies" that, often with tremendous labor and small amount of sleep, they have reached advanced years in unusual health and happiness.

The importance of being vitally interested in something cannot be too strongly impressed and there is no lesson the world needs today more than that mental occupation is a safeguard to health.

The example of the business man who, after a long and successful career, retires to rest, with no longer an active interest, we see frequently. While occasional organic conditions make this a necessity, usually the changed mode of life, with no proper substitute, is a detriment. He was far better "pegging away," mind actively engaged and self forgotten, than with idle hours and no real interest.

It is a scientifically established truth that not only every part of the body is "perpetually transmitting sensations to the brain, but also that if the attention be turned to any particular part the sensations transmitted from it tend to become exaggerated."

Many a so-called case of nervous indigestion, chronic insomnia or other conditions of a neurasthenic nature, can be traced directly to the vacant mind, eternally dwelling on self.

A large percentage of these ailments are among people who do not feel the necessity of earning a living and have no adequate outlet for their energy, which leads them to unfortunate self thought. The cultivation of a hobby often proves salvation.

Of course the man with a hobby frequently becomes a bore and is apt to ride his hobby to death, but better bore people with a hobby than allow the mind to become the seat of fears and anxieties from lack of more profitable thoughts.

After all most of us would rather listen to any kind of a hobby than to be wearied by a constantly recurrent account of physical ailments and worries.

There are many splendid hobbies in the world—great movements in charity and philanthropy, as well as along various lines of education and science, and to fill the mind with such real interest is a magnificent substitute for the aimlessly drifting, vacuous mind.

The longest-living men are known to have been the most zealous hobby-riders. A man who develops ardent interest in his work and equally ardent interest in his hobby is pretty sure to accomplish a full measure of success, without danger to health.

America's Passion For the Beautiful Greater Than That of Europe

By HAROLD BEGBIE, English Author and Sociologist

MATERIAL things are always the expression of the mind. The passion of American people for beauty is far greater than Europe's. It is so thorough and so deep that they must have railway stations like cathedrals and shops like temples of art.

They read more than English people read. They are more intelligent. They are more original. THEY ARE INFINITELY MORE IN EARNEST. IT IS AMUSING TO THINK THAT EUROPE, LIVING ON THE ARCHITECTURE AND BEAUTY OF ITS PAST, SHOULD PRESUME TO BRING A CHARGE OF MATERIALISM AGAINST THE TREMENDOUS NATION which is visibly building up a new and splendid world and which sends to the old world nearly all the inventions which prevent that old world from falling into dotage.

AMERICA IS THE MOST VIGOROUS AND LIVING EXPRESSION OF THE HUMAN MIND, AND, WHILE AMERICA IS CONSCIOUS THAT IT HAS SOMETHING TO LEARN FROM EUROPE, EUROPE HAS HARDLY BEGUN TO BE CURIOUS ABOUT THE REAL EXISTENCE OF AMERICA.

Poetry For Today

SAND WILL DO IT.

I observed a locomotive in the railroad yard one day.
It was waiting in the roundhouse where the locomotives stay;
It was panting for the journey, it was coaled and fully manned,
And it had a box the fireman was filling full of sand.

It appears that a locomotive cannot always get a grip
On their slender iron pavement cause the wheels are apt to slip;
And when they reach a slippery spot their tactics they command,
And to get a grip upon the rail they sprinkled it with sand.

It's about the way with travel along life's slippery track;
If your load is rather heavy you're always slipping back.
So, if a common locomotive you completely understand,
You'll provide yourself in starting with a good supply of sand.

If your track is steep and hilly and you have a heavy grade,
If those who've gone before you have the rails quite slippery made,
If you ever reach the summit of the upper tableland,
You'll find you'll have to do it with a liberal use of sand.

If you strike some frigid weather and discover to your cost,
That you're liable to slip upon a heavy coat of frost,
That some prompt decided action will be called into demand,
And you'll slip away to the bottom if you haven't any sand.

You can get to any station that is on life's schedule seen,
If there's fire beneath the boiler of ambition's strong machine,
And you'll reach a place called Fluestown at a rate of speed that's grand,
If for all the slippery places, you've got a good supply of sand.

DECOY PERISCOPES.

A Submarine Trick to Lure the Enemy to Destruction.

Such things exist as decoy periscopes—short lengths of pipe held upright on a float and looking exactly like the real periscope. The submarine sets them adrift for you to find—sometimes scatters several of them.

When one is sighted you cannot stop to consider whether the little object dancing on the sea half a mile or so distant does or does not mean 250 pounds of high explosive coming straight at you. Maybe you will see an aeroplane maneuvering over it in a way that carries conviction that it does. You don't dare to take any chances and so you train all the guns at it.

Then the real submarine sinks up on the other side of the ship, and with the swift rush of its torpedo, the latest of sea tragedies comes to an end.—Park Benjamin in the New York Independent.

INHARMONY CAUSES ILLS

New York, Nov. 28.—"Dr." Franklin W. Sears, head of the New Thought church, in court acted as his own counsel in defending himself against a charge made by Detective Isabella Goodwin of practicing medicine without a license. Dr. Sears said he did not cure any ills, but taught individuals how to cure themselves. His treatment, he said, was relaxation, silence, long, slow, deep breathing and affirmation of the words "the peace and harmony of God's universe is pouring into me now."

Harmony constituted good health and inharmony caused disease, he said. Strong and clean thoughts, he asserted, produced harmonious relationship. Anger is inharmonious thought, Dr. Sears added. The defendant said he wore glasses for twenty-five years, but through the application of the New Thought teachings cured himself eight years ago. He called attention to his hair, and explained that fifteen years ago he was bald. The growth of hair he said was due to the harmonious atmosphere he created. Judge Levy reserved decision until Dec. 2.

ANTI-CHRISTIAN REVOLT IS FEARED

Rome, Nov. 28.—The Italian diplomatic agent at Cairo reports to the foreign office that the situation in Egypt is satisfactory, but that Italian citizens in Smyrna, especially at Beirut, are alarmed over the danger of an anti-Christian revolt.

HEALTH AND WEDLOCK.

Conditions That Should Be Studied Before It Is Too Late.

Marriage, from any point of view, is of course a serious proposition, as it may bless or wreck two human lives, if not more. Not the least important of these points of view is that of the health of both parties to the contract. The health commissioner of Pennsylvania in an official bulletin gives the following advice to those about to marry:

"First, a man should not marry unless into a family with a history of reasonable longevity, free from hereditary disease. He should not marry a woman advanced in life, delicate, feeble or afflicted with any inherited deformity. The age most proper for women in this climate is nineteen or twenty years and for men twenty-four or twenty-five years. Women of a nervous temperament, those who are extremely irritable, hysterical, subject to convulsions or to epilepsy from organic disease, ought to avoid matrimony.

"In this country marriages before the ages of twenty-five and nineteen respectively are contraindicated, because, as a rule, previous to these periods of life the body is not fully developed, the different functions are not perfect, and any offspring developed by them in their immature condition must be deficient in vital power."

THREE FAYETTE BOYS WILL ENJOY TRIP FREE OF COST

Two Jefferson Township Lads and One Paint Township Boy Win Coveted Prizes—Special Train Leaves This Monday of Next Week—More Than 1500 Expected to Enjoy the Week's Trip Through East.

Three Fayette county boys are looking forward with a great deal of pleasant anticipation to the free trip to Washington and other eastern points—the reward for being the champion corn raisers in Fayette county—or rather in Jefferson and Paint townships, where the free trips were offered.

The fortunate lads are Ottis Straley, of Jefferson, who grew 122.85 bushels of corn upon one acre at the minimum cost of $16.81; Russell Lee Cook, Jefferson, 110.87 bushels and Harold R. Barnes, Paint township, 97.73 bushels upon one acre.

Two free trips were offered by the citizens of Jeffersonville and Jefferson township, and one offered by the citizens of Paint township.

Several of the other lads are expecting to go, their parents or friends assisting them financially in order that they may not be disappointed, and may meet the president of the United States and other notables, as well as see the sights in several big eastern cities.

The special train carrying boys from this and other nearby counties will pass through Washington over the Pennsylvania lines, Monday at 12:20 p. m., and will stop long enough to pick up those from this county who make the trip.

The enrollment for the Buckeye Corn Special tour already surpasses last year's enrollment and it has been found necessary to arrange for additional cars on each of the seven special trains to take care of those who may decide to join the party at the last moment.

Ambassador Myron T. Herrick is due to arrive in New York from France on Friday, December 4, the day the Buckeye Corn Special party is to spend there. A reception by such a host of his fellow citizens from Ohio ought to make his native land look mighty good to him.

Forty barrels of apples will await the Buckeye Corn Special party at Pittsburgh, the gift of T. D. Harmon of the National Stockman & Farmer.

Those in touch with the movement say that the enrollment already exceeds that of last year and that this year's enrollment will reach 1500.

U. S. Senator, Atlee Pomerene and wife have made reservation for the Buckeye Corn Special tour.

Mrs. Chas. C. Weybrecht, of Alliance, wife of Col. Weybrecht, among other prominent women of Ohio, is to assist in the handling of the Buckeye Corn Special party. Mrs. Weybrecht will chaperone a company of girls on the official section of the Buckeye Corn Special party.

RAILROADS NOW ACCEPT STOCK IN THIS COUNTY

Late Friday evening all railroads in Fayette county were notified that shipments of live stock could be accepted under certain restrictions, and as a result hundreds of head of fat hogs and some cattle are now on the move to market, and next week, if interstate shipments are permitted, several thousand hogs and many cattle will be shipped from this county.

It is necessary to make affidavit that the stock is known to be free from the foot and mouth disease, and the shipments must not be from points within three miles of a farm quarantined on account of the disease.

Probate Judge Allen is still trying to solve the riddle of the shortage of Thanksgiving marriages in Fayette county, but so far has not been able to ascertain why Dan Cupid was not busy as usual during Thanksgiving week.

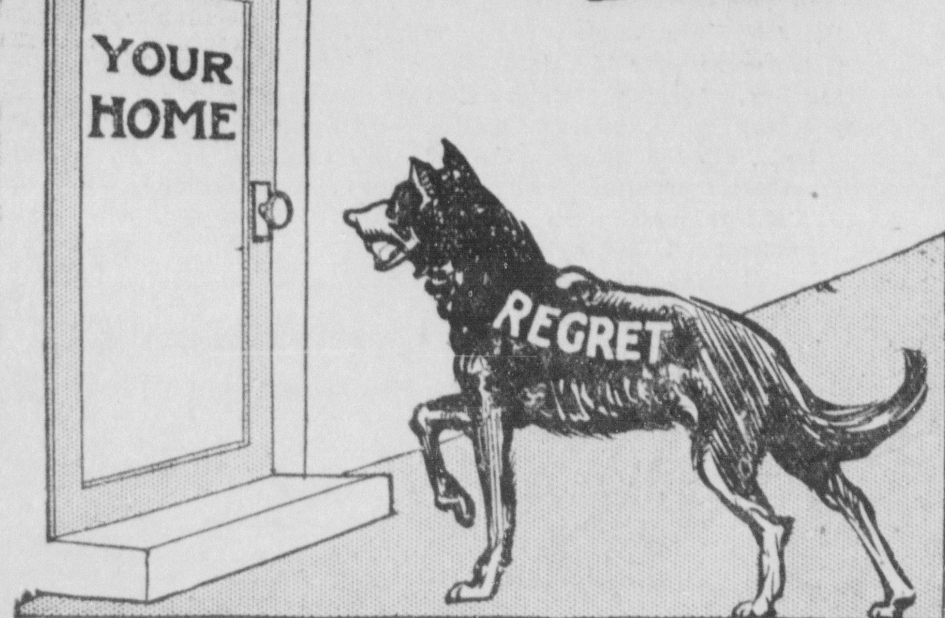

This year only one license was issued for Thanksgiving marriage, and the number usually runs from four to ten. Last year the number reached seven.

In Social Circles

The Ohio State University banquet held in the Odd Fellows' Temple Friday night, was characterized by its brilliancy and spontaneity and proved an added chapter of pleasure in the annals of these annual events.

The large banquet hall blazed with cheer and the long dining room tables gleamed with silver and crystal and were beautifully decorated with pink chrysanthemums and greenery.

The Daughters of Rebekah served an elaborate course banquet, the courses enjoyed in merry sociability, distinctively collegiate in its pleasure.

Mr. Fred Carpenter acted as toastmaster and no more clever toastmaster could have been chosen, his pertinent and refreshing wit introducing the speakers adding much to the brilliancy of the hour of toasting.

Mr. Frank C. Parrett, who is an exceedingly fluent and polished speaker, made the principal address of the evening. With the utmost loyalty to his alma mater Mr. Parrett developed the idea of what the college career ought to mean, emphasized the necessity of forming an ideal and living up to it and the importance of young men entering college with definite aims.

Mr. Parrett closed his really eloquent talk with a beautiful poem, a tribute to Ohio and her sons and daughters.

The toastmaster responded to "Our College Girls", with a very pretty toast, sparkling with humor.

"The O. S. U. Battalion" was the subject of a delightful toast, in which Mr. Howard Heglar, with his inimitable dry humor, reminiscenced of his own college day and of the enormous growth of the college army since then.

Dr. H. M. Roberts recalled, "Memories of the O. S. U.", in a very interesting way, and Dr. Olds, of the O. S. U. responded ably to the call for impromptu toasts.

Later the banquet was converted into a business meeting, with Mr. Fred C. Carpenter in the chair.

Mr. Dave Heglar was elected President of the Alumni organization and Hays Dill secretary.

Forty, largely members of the Alumni and present students, attended the banquet.

During the evening there was a fine concert of graphonola music, the instrument furnished through the courtesy of Mr. Earl Barnett, of the Alumni.

The daughters of the Rebekah scored success on their admirable serving of the banquet, the white costumes of the women adding to the pleasing effect of the scene.

The banquet committee included Dr. Harry M. Roberts, Howard Heglar and Fred Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Maynard pleasantly entertained half a dozen couples of intimate friends in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glascock, Cincinnati, Friday evening.

Mrs. Wert Briggs gave an extremely pretty birthday party for her 11-year-old daughter, Dorothy, Friday afternoon.

A dozen of Dorothy's young classmates of the Fifth grade, spent the merriest of afternoons, and were served with a delicious luncheon.

There was a birthday cake and chrysanthemums in decoration.

The two grand-mothers, Mrs. R. A. Darlington and Mrs. C. J. Thompson, and Miss Margaret Christopher, assisted in the hospitalities.

The occasion of a notable family gathering was the eightieth birthday of Mr. Henry Mark, celebrated at the home of the son, Mr. Fred M. Mark, Saturday.

It is seldom that a family of nine children is able to gather, in an unbroken family circle, year after year and the pleasure of celebrating the eightieth milestone together was accentuated by the fact that the beloved father, one of those fine pioneer gentlemen, of whom Fayette county is proud, holds his own remarkably well. Mr. Mark has attained his four-score years rich in the esteem of all who know him, and he and his wife are blessed with nine devoted children, eleven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The children present were Mrs. Chas. Roberts, Mr. Joe E. Mark, Mrs. Eliza Waddell, Mrs. Ada Jones, Mrs. Naomi Cockerill, of Greenfield, Mr. Chas. E. Mark, Mr. Fred M. Mark, Mrs. Oscar Wike and Miss Ruth Mark.

The handsome home, with its connecting rooms, accommodated the large family perfectly, and immense chrysanthemums added graceful decoration.

A sumptuous dinner, including every delicacy of the season, was served at high noon, the long table having artistic embellishment of yellow and white chrysanthemums and greenery.

The honor guest was, throughout the dinner, showered with good wishes, and two beautiful toasts given to him, Mr. Fred M. Mark toasting the father on behalf of the children, and Miss Helen Jones for the grandchildren.

The late afternoon shadows gave signal for the breaking up of the joyous party, which ended in sincere wishes that Mr. Mark may be able to enjoy many future birthdays in the same congenial happiness of his home circle.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Leach delightfully entertained 15 couples with a dance at their home near Cunningham, Friday night.

There was good orchestral music, light refreshments and a merry time, until the "wee small hours".

Mr. F. W. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rankin assisted in the hospitalities.

Mrs. Frank L. Hutson delightfully entertained the Wednesday club of Bloomingburg at her home east of town Wednesday afternoon.

About 25 young ladies and matrons were present to enjoy a social time while busily engaged over their needlework.

An elaborate Thanksgiving luncheon was served, the hostess being assisted by Miss Ethel Wilson and Miss Helen Elizabeth Hutson.

Dr. and Mrs. Grant Marchant and daughter, Miss Iris, of Milledgeville, leave Monday for Palmetto, Fla., where Dr. Marchant has erected a bungalow on his fruit grove for occupancy as a winter residence.

GERMANS RUSHING UP THEIR RESERVES

Desperate Efforts Made to Save Isolated Advance Column.

RUSSIANS PRESSING INWARD

German Corps of Fifty Thousand Reported to Have Surrendered When Cut Off From the Main Army in Poland—Another Corps Said to Be Surrounded—Reports Lack Official Confirmation.

London, Nov. 28.—The failure of the Russian government to announce the extent of the victory gained over the Germans in Poland is producing irritation in Petrograd, and there is a reflection of the feeling in this city.

Notwithstanding the reticence of the government, there is evidence that the Russians have scored a great victory in Poland. The Army Messenger of Petrograd, the organ of the Russian general staff, publishes the following: "The Russian troops have redoubled their offensive. An entire German corps of 50,000 men surrendered when cut off from the main army in Poland. Another corps has been surrounded and probably will have to surrender. The terrific losses suffered by the Germans have compelled them to weaken in their offensive, though they have rushed up great numbers of reinforcements."

A dispatch from Petrograd says: "The Russians are now pressing inward with the object of enclosing a great part of the German army, which is halted within a crooked triangle, the apex of which is west of the Koluzki railway junction and the base of which bends through the country below Lodz and Lodz, Poland. The Russians have part of their strength turned inward against this position as a kind of siege operation, but the main Russian army is now thrown outward over a wide area in order to resist the determined efforts now being made by the Germans from the direction of Thorn."

"The Germans are bringing reserves from East Prussia in the hope of saving the isolated advance column, and it is evident that immense numbers of troops will again be engaged. German troops are on the way from Dantzig. These troops are making train journeys of from one to four days to the frontier and then must march for five or six days in order to reach the fringe of the present battleground. All the weight of this force comes from the north. The effort from the west through Liegnitz has been completely smashed, and defeats suffered by the Austro-German force between Cracow and Czenstochova make it hopeless for the be-

"The situation has the most vital importance for the whole campaign. The German column whose existence is at stake lost a great part of its transport, artillery and ammunition before it felt the pressure of the closing operation. It is losing its rifle ammunition. The next stage must be a bayonet fight or surrender."

INACTION STUNS MILITARY CRITICS

Paris, Nov. 28.—There was no important movement by allies or Germans anywhere on the battle line in Belgium and France. When the enormous numbers facing each other and the resolution and spirit of each side are considered, the cessation of fighting in the past week is astonishing to military critics.

FRANCE AND THE VATICAN RESUME DIPLOMATIC TIES

Rome, Nov. 28.—Sir Henry Howard, the special British minister plenipotentiary to the vatican, will present his credentials to the pope next week and will immediately be accredited as envoy extraordinary during the continuance of the war. A resumption of diplomatic relations between France and the vatican is possible, but it has been delayed because France, as a Catholic country, must send an ambassador, and the vatican will reciprocate by sending a nuncio to France whereas the diplomatic relations between Great Britain and the vatican are unilateral.

DONAHEY RAPS EXTRAVAGANCE

Columbus, Nov. 28.—According to State Auditor Donahey state employees who insist on eating meals costing over $1.50 and charging them up to the state should be discharged. Donahey's forthcoming annual report will deal exhaustively with the subject of extravagance by state employees, it is said. In a written statement Mr. Donahey says: "The state of Ohio should not pay the traveling expenses of its examiners and inspectors, except railroad fare. It is sheer nonsense to pay for hotels, chair cars, taxicabs, tips for waiters, cigars, etc. Grant these men ample salaries and require them to pay their own expenses."

Donahey recommends that the coming legislature pass an act placing specific limitations on the expense accounts of state employees.

STORK HOVERS O'ER WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Nov. 28.—President Wilson arrived here today from Williamstown, Mass., where he had been the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, whose first wedding anniversary the president joined in celebrating Wednesday night. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sayre urged the president to stay over Sunday and go home Sunday night, reaching Washington Monday morning. Mrs. Sayre had not been feeling very well, which lent more force to her request. A compromise was reached. It was intimated that the Sayres should visit Washington for the Christmas holidays, at the time that the visit of the stork is expected.

Petrograd, Nov. 28.—The Russian military staff announces the capture of 4,000 Austrians Nov. 26 on the Cracow front.

The Curse of Mexico.

Xochitl, the beautiful Indian maiden of 900 years ago, is responsible for the Mexican national drink, pulque, pronounced poolkay. She was the first to drink the sweet liquid from the maguey plant, cousin of the aloe, that blooms once in 100 years. The drink in its fresh state is quite harmless, but the modern Mexicans have debased it by fermentation, and it has now become the curse of Mexico. It appears to have much the same effect as some other national drinks, for it softens the brain, ruins the digestion and paralyzes the nerves. So disastrous a hold has pulque upon the poorer classes that employers of labor avoid workers from the maguey fields if they can get labor elsewhere.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Shocking Story.

"What's the show?" asked the man with a large hat and long hair. "Hamlet," replied the man in the box office. "What's it like?" Absentminded.

I went for a music lesson the other day and carried a basket with me, as I intended to do some shopping on the way home. When I had finished my lesson I left, but hadn't gone far when I suddenly remembered my basket. So back I went and asked the maid who opened the door to give it to me. I did feel somewhat ridiculous when she asked me if I had brought two baskets, as I had one already hanging on my arm.—London Telegraph.

POLICE PROBE BAFF MURDER

New York, Nov. 28.—Herbert A. Emerson, general manager of the Live Poultry Auction company, told the story of the late Barnett Baff's quarrel with the little retail dealers of the East Side, the men who saw this countryman of theirs outgrow his old business methods and forge ahead of them in the struggle for wealth until his success spelled their ruin and they determined to kill him. Out of his story and others similar to it the police have formed their idea that the murder was a business deal from which hundreds of small merchants hoped to win back something of the trade they believed Baff had taken from them by unfair methods. Arrests are expected in the next twenty-four hours. Baff was killed by gunmen in West Washington street last week.

FORMER PRESIDENT OPINES REGARDING MONROE DOCTRINE

Landing of Enemy In Canada
Would Not Violate It.

Montclair, N. J., Nov. 28.—The Monroe doctrine was strongly approved, its relation to the present European war discussed, and the declaration that interference by the United States in Mexico and Central American states has had nothing to do with that doctrine, was made by former President William Howard Taft in an address here. These are some of the salient features of his remarks:

The landing of troops in Canada by enemies of Great Britain would not constitute a violation of the doctrine, but an effort to establish a new form of government in case of victory would. "Canada is already furnishing substantial military aid to Great Britain and the allies," Mr. Taft said. "On that theory, therefore, could we justly object to Germany's taking counter measures and carrying the war into a country which is waging war upon her? All that the Monroe doctrine would consistently require of us would be to insist when the war is over, if Germany were successful, she could not take over the territory of Canada."

There is little likelihood of the policy's being pressed in Argentina, Brazil and Chile. These countries are able to protect themselves and they are so remote from the United States that violation of the doctrine in respect to them would not be harmful to this country's interests and safety.

The doctrine has not been applied in Mexico because there is nothing in it which requires the United States to bring about peace in that country. "Watchful waiting," Mr. Taft said, "was the term applied to the United States status," but, he went on, "we have neither watched nor waited, but have, in fact, most hastily intervened, and thus find the present anarchy charged as the logical consequence of our policy."

Mr. Taft found much good to say about the Monroe doctrine and expressed the hope that it might not be abandoned. "It has made peace for ninety years," he said. "Why will it not make peace in the next 100 years?"

A RIVAL'S DOWNFALL

Out of Bitterness the Lovers
Drew Happiness.

By ESTHER AINSLEE.

If Dalzell's store advertised a sale of silk dress goods in the Monday issue of the Rosemont Banner it was a certainty that the paper's Tuesday night number would contain an ad. from Thompson's store across the street telling of bargains in satins, with a side line of embroideries, at which Rosemont smiled appreciatively and reaped the benefit.

The town was proud of the proprietors of the two leading dry goods stores, for most of the young men left for the adjacent big city when it came time to make their way in the world, but Malcolm Dalzell and Lewis Thompson within a year of each other settled down to make a living in their home town.

Perhaps it were better to say Rosemont was proud of their enterprise, for Lewis Thompson was not the type to inspire affection in the hearts of his townsmen. A man cannot be blamed for lack of magnetism and an attractive nature, but nevertheless he suffers for it, and Thompson possessed besides these drawbacks a hot headed, quarrelsome disposition and a theory that every man had a right to look out for himself to the exclusion of any possible rights of others.

His aggressiveness made him enemies where Malcolm Dalzell won friends by his mere cheerfulness and diplomacy. But each flourished on his own side of the street.

Not only were they rivals in business, but from the days of carrying schoolbooks there had seemingly been but one girl in the world in the eyes of each. Milly Wainwright, with the waves of soft brown hair and eyes that matched it, with the sweet voice and appealing little ways.

Shrewd people even said the reason both boys stayed in Rosemont was that each was afraid to leave the other a clear field with Milly, who had never shown any preference between the two.

Lewis Thompson was a different man with her. Her mere presence smoothed and softened the aggressive young business man, and she smiled incredulously when stories of his cold shrewdness and overreaching deals came to her ears.

Yet unknown to herself Malcolm Dalzell occupied a place in her life from which no one could dislodge him. Milly was in the delicious and dreamy state of indecision which a girl always prolongs unwittingly. Life was sweet to her, and even the growing wildness of her younger brother, Dick, which was aging her father and mother, had not power to do more than depress her momentarily.

"It's only because Dick is young," she told her mother half indignantly. "He will see the mistake of his ways before he ever does anything really wrong. Why, Dick wouldn't be really bad. It's absurd!"

She was great chums with the handsome eighteen-year-old brother, and because she did have faith in him the boy turned to her always in his rare spells of repentance. At present he had gone to work in a bank in the next town, six miles distant.

The Rosemont Banner had two columns of description, speculation and denunciation when Thompson's store was robbed. Malefactors were rare in Rosemont, and the night watchman's work was perfunctory, but nevertheless Lewis Thompson discovered a back window pried open and nearly $200 worth of silks and laces missing.

Three weeks later he was reduced to explosive rage by the discovery that again his store had been entered. This time a hundred dollars' worth of goods vanished. In his wrath the owner of the store telegraphed for a city detective and established a night patrol for the block. The city detective looked important, smoked the cigars of the leading citizens, who wanted to tell him their theories as to the robbery, had a very pleasant time and departed with dark hints as to future developments.

"At any rate," Lewis Thompson said vigorously, "with Maloney on hand as a watchman the thief won't get another chance!"

"It's hard luck, Lewis," sympathized Malcolm Dalzell with his business rival. Thompson regarded him coldly. Of late Milly had been in Dalzell's company more than he liked.

"Thanks," he said. "It's funny the thief doesn't attack your premises, Malcolm. I don't understand such favoritism unless it's because he knows where the best goods are!" He smiled somewhat maliciously as he made the thing.

"Superiority has its drawbacks, then," Dalzell said quietly, holding his temper. He understood Thompson's grudge against him and could afford to be magnanimous, for he had begun to cherish a certainty that he had distanced Thompson with Milly. For her he would endure much.

Lewis Thompson did not relax his vigilance as the weeks went by. One Thursday night as he made one of his personal trips of inspection about 1 o'clock he started for his store on a run after finding the watchman, Maloney, knocked senseless at the corner. And he was rewarded. The revolver in his hand covered the dark form of the man standing at the rear window with the faint gleam of a dark lantern on the floor beside him.

Yet even Lewis Thompson was speechless when after his trembling fingers had turned on the rear light he saw the man before him was none other than Malcolm Dalzell, who stood white and quiet facing his captor.

"I—I can't comprehend," Thompson almost stammered, still covering the marauder with his revolver. "You—of all people!"

The man before him moistened his lips. "Lewis," he said at last, "will you believe me if I say, in spite of this, I'm not the robber—that it's just unfortunate circumstances that have brought this about? Will you?"

Lewis Thompson recovered his coolness, and he laughed shortly, sarcastically, glancing significantly at the dark lantern, the fallen Jimmy, the goods piled at hand for removal.

"I don't see any one but you, Dalzell," he said curtly. "You've got to take your medicine. You can plead kleptomania, you know. Rising young business man, easy circumstances, no need to rob—why, of course, it's kleptomania!"

There was a little triumph edging into his laugh as what this meant to his rival dawned upon him. And it was likewise dawning upon his captive, who shut his jaw when the marshal, hastily summoned, almost refused to obey Thompson's command to take the prisoner to the jail.

"Go ahead, Smith," was all that Malcolm Dalzell would say, and he walked to the lockup with his head in the air.

The whole town shared the sensations of Smith the next morning, and the Rosemont Banner exhausted all its heavy black faced type that evening and paused only for absence of more space. It was paralyzing, horrifying, this downfall of a man like Malcolm Dalzell, one of those queer croppings out of hidden tendencies that sometimes destroy the world's best.

The three days that intervened before his preliminary hearing drew lines

In Dalzell's face and gave him a pallor that usually it takes age to bring. Yet he maintained those close shut lips and, further than stating he was not guilty, refused to talk.

When he faced his friends and neighbors at the preliminary hearing there was a trace of proud defiance in his glance that yet was strangely hurt, for on many faces he read a dawning wavering in allegiance to him.

Much talk had bred suspicion, and every one knew of the long rivalry between the two men. What more natural than that Dalzell should attempt to harass, to ruin his opponent? So they waited for the sensational disclosures.

The sensation came. As usual with sensations, it was quite different from what was expected. This white faced girl, with eyes reddened by tears, who suddenly presented herself struck pity from the heart of the hardest. She spoke rapidly, breathlessly.

"Malcolm did not do it!" she protested, with tight clasped hands. "If he won't tell I will, now that I know the truth! It was Dick, my brother, and Malcolm, who also was watching, saw him and entered Thompson's store to save him, to get him away, to help him, and when Lewis Thompson came upon him—he, Malcolm, would not tell because—"

Milly Wainwright's voice died away, but the end of the sentence was furnished by Malcolm Dalzell's quick step to her side and hiding her tears on his shoulder. Both had made their sacrifice for each other and out of the bitterness had snatched happiness. And Rosemont, with the fickleness of the human race, said it served Lewis Thompson right and he should have had more common sense.

"CAMEL'S HAIR" BRUSHES.

The Very Best of Them Are Made From Squirrels' Tails.

It may sound rather strange, but it is nevertheless true that no brushes are ever made of camel's hair, yet they are asked for daily and sold as such.

There are very many kinds of hair used in the making of "camel's hair" brushes, such as bear, fox, rabbit, squirrel, etc., and, indeed, one authority states that over 150 sorts of brushes are known as "camel's hair" brushes, but there is only one definition accepted by the British board of trade—i. e., "camel's hair" brushes made from squirrel tails, these being the best and most expensive.

Real camel's hair is absolutely useless for making brushes and resembles soft tow of a yellow-brownish color. The mane of a camel is the only part which could be used, and possibly a dozen brushes could be made from one mane.

As a matter of fact, there are only two specimens of brushes made from the actual hair of a camel in existence. The reason for the term "camel's hair" is the fact that a man named Camel was the first one to make these finer kinds of brushes, and they became generally known as "real camel's hair brushes."—London Answers.

Newspaper Advertising

Goes direct to the people and the people constitute the buying public. Newspaper advertising not only talks but it emphasizes; it has the undivided attention of the reader and covers a field no salesman can hope to reach. There are many styles in newspaper advertising and the small announcement, which costs only five cents, is just as effective in its way as the larger one, which costs proportionately more. The benefits to be derived can not be measured by the size of the ad, for the very good reason that the small, inexpensive announcement invariably proves effective. Newspaper advertising costs from five cents up to any price the advertiser desires to pay.

TRAVELERS CHEQUES NOW GOOD THROUGHOUT WORLD

At the beginning of the European war, banks all over the land were notified that the sale of American Bankers' Association cheques must be discontinued, as the international credit system had been shaken to pieces, and the holder of such cheques might experience difficulty or fail utterly in having the cheques cashed. However, arrangements have since been made whereby the cheques are issued as formerly, and are now good throughout the world, whether in Germany, England, France, Russia, or any of the other war-ridden countries or peaceful nations.

The Washington Savings Bank & Trust Company is in receipt of a letter regarding the issuance of travelers cheques, and the following is an excerpt from the letter:

"As you well remember we notified your bank about the 1st of August to discontinue the sale of 'American Bankers' Association Travelers' cheques' payable throughout the world, requesting you to make them for use and redemption in the United States and Canada only, this action being rendered imperative at the time and we understand was adopted by all issuers of Travelers' cheques.

"Certain conditions have since changed in such manner as to warrant us in now authorizing you to issue American Bankers' Association Travelers' cheques for use in all parts of the world as usual.

"The writer has just returned from Europe, having been there since soon after the breaking out of hostilities, where, we are pleased to say these cheques are now being cashed very readily, as was their custom before the war broke out.

"With kind regards and best wishes, we remain,

Very truly yours,
BANKERS' TRUST COMPANY."

BIG MOVEMENT OF LIVE STOCK

Extensive movement of cattle, sheep and hogs to local markets was reported to State Agricultural Com. following the order Thursday, releasing a number of counties from quarantine against the foot and mouth disease, and the modification of the order in others, permitting shipments of healthy herds under restrictions. Cincinnati received 1400 hogs and 600 cattle. These released counties were reported to be fairly alive with hunters.

Counties yet under a modified quarantine may have sections released absolutely in time for hunters to do some shooting. State Veterinarian Fischer yesterday stated that such arrangement possibly will be made within two weeks.

In the counties still under absolute quarantine, inspectors are doing their utmost to make a complete investigation of all herds, and officials say there is probability that certain sections of these counties may be opened in time to permit some hunting. Governor Cox has expressed himself as favoring quarantine by townships and small sections, instead of by counties.

UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT IMMENSE SUCCESS

Good Hope has an established reputation for doing things, but one of the greatest stunts ever pulled off in that village was the "Darkey wedding", at Wayne hall, Friday night.

The house was simply packed. The entire entertainment was the biggest kind of a success from start to finish.

Part first comprised an old-fashioned colored school, with ciphering and spelling matches, and wound up with an old-fashioned exhibition in which the darkey quartet made a special hit.

Little colored boys sold peanuts between acts.

The wedding started out with eclat, a colored door keeper and four colored ushers seating the guests.

There were two flower girls, a ring bearer and two maids preceding the bride and bridegroom, and the costumes rivaled any ever donned for a nuptial event.

As the ceremony proceeded, the delight of the crowd exceeded all bounds and when the wedding party came down from the platform and led the way to the "bridal hall", followed by the thirty guests, merriment reached its height.

Mrs. John Weade took the part of the bride, Mr. Harold King, the bridegroom; Mr. Weade, the "parson"; Misses Lura King and Lucy McElwain the maids; Lucy Steers the ring bearer and Anna Bell Stemlar and Moreen York the flower girls. Miss Bernice Holdren played the wedding march.

The bridal table was decked in sunflowers and wild grass and the
